

Tucson Regional Educator Collaborative

TREC is a group of dedicated educators led by The University of Arizona College of Education in partnership with regional school districts and professional development providers committed to supporting teacher professional development in the Tucson Region. The main goal of TREC is to increase teacher retention by leveraging the region's resources.

WHERE WE ARE NOW

Working together to support the professional development of the region's teachers by:

- ★ Building the TREC website hub
- ★ Collaborating at TREC retreats
- ★ Piloting TREC Teacher Leaders
- ★ Organizing the June SEL Summit

IDENTIFIED NEEDS:

Leadership opportunities for classroom teachers

Importance: Classroom teachers too often leave the classroom looking for leadership positions.

Finding PD opportunities is currently time consuming for teachers

Importance: With high teacher turnover, it is essential that teachers are able to find resources immediately.

Since classrooms are changing, teachers and districts identified Social Emotional Learning as a top unmet need

Importance: It is challenging to maintain positive learning environments without resources and professional learning around SEL.
